Campbelltown Hospital has marked another milestone in its $632 million stage two redevelopment with schematic design for the project launched in October. NSW Premier Gladys Berejiklian officially launched the schematic design, together with the Minister for Health and Medical Research Hon Brad Hazzard, on Monday 29 October 2018 at the site of the new multi storey car park. The completion of the schematic design is a key step in delivering the hospital redevelopment which will provide a new purpose built facility offering world-class services for the Macarthur Community.

Main Works Update

The tender for the new clinical services building and associated works is currently underway. Finalisation of the selection of the contractor will commence at the start of 2019. Site preparation works for the new clinical services building are due to commence in early 2019.

Arts, Culture and Health Partnership

We are pleased to announce that we are partnering with Campbelltown City Council Art Centre and the Western Sydney University's Graduate Research School to develop a strategy to incorporate arts and culture as part the Campbelltown Hospital redevelopment project.

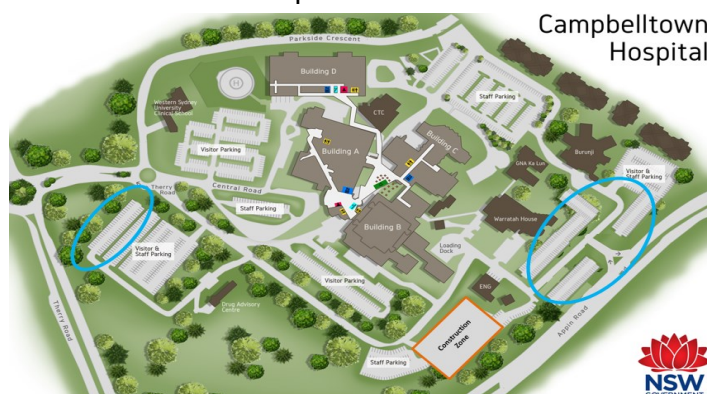

The strategy involves the practice of applying arts such as visual, performance, craft, digital, literary or musical, to create creative and meaningful ways to enhance the health outcomes of Macarthur patients and carers. The strategy will engage hospital staff and community members in the planning and design of the Campbelltown Hospital redevelopment project and support education and research. Some of the initiatives will look at:

- What should a hospital feel like?
- Aboriginal engagement and incorporation of history and culture through design.
- Community and staff engagement to re-shape the local community and its identity.

If you would like to know more about the arts, culture and health initiatives, please contact the redevelopment team by emailing CampbelltownHospitalRedevelopment@health.nsw.gov.au

Ground Level Car Park Update

We are pleased to announce that all on ground car parks are now complete and operational. They are circled on the site map below.
