SNEAK PEEK AT NEW $632 MILLION CAMPBELLTOWN HOSPITAL

Community members will have the chance to have a 'sneak peek' of Campbelltown Hospital's new clinical services building on Saturday 4 June before it opens to the public.

The hospital is inviting community members to book a behind-the-scenes tour of the highly anticipated 12-storey building, which is the centrepiece of the hospital's $632 million stage two redevelopment.

Member for Camden Peter Sidgreaves said hospital staff and the community had watched the new building emerge from the ground up since construction works started in 2018.

"The impressive façade has generated lots of excitement around what's inside," Mr Sidgreaves said.

"The open day tours will offer participants a unique glimpse at key hospital spaces and the chance to learn about services from hospital staff."

The modern, expanded spaces of the new building will include an emergency department, women's health services, including birthing suites and a maternity unit, dedicated children's units, state-of-the-art operating theatres and an intensive care unit, along with mental health units.

Public spaces and retail outlets will also feature in the main thoroughfare connecting the new clinical services building to the existing hospital buildings.

Camden and Campbelltown Hospitals General Manager Grant Isedale said staff were excited to be moving into the new building in stages from June.

"We are so excited to be showcasing the fantastic new clinical services building to the community ahead of its opening," he said.

The open day is a free, COVID-safe event and bookings are essential as tour spaces are limited. Interested community members can book online at <https://bit.ly/CHRTours>. Bookings close at 4pm on Thursday 2 June, unless booked out earlier.

Those without access to the internet can call 02 4634 4994 during office hours for assistance to make a booking.
